ESPERADO SLAYS TWO MEN IN JACKSONVILLE

r Killing Showman Jesse Altman Slew Companion, Who, Dying, Shot Him.

Jacksonville Metropolis of Fri- gives the following account of ing of three men in that city:

a result of too much 'booze' bad temper, Jesse Altman, a known character of this city, kill- wo men last night and was in ain by one of his victims, dying minutes after a shot from his istol had pierced his heart. The f Altman's victims was a show- known as 'Blacky' Woods, but iends and acquaintances stated is real name was Bert Woods. econd man killed by Altman is name as John R. Smith, he just able to speak when the po- ached the scene of the last kill- n Highway avenue, just outside e city limits. Altman and are said to have been together Altman murdered Woods, at rner of Julia and Bay streets, ut 7 o'clock last evening.

The First Tragedy.

ording to witnesses who saw murder, the tragedy between and Altman started from the ng of a handful of confetti. was with the crowd on Bay and when passing one of the al attractions at the corner of and Bay streets Woods play- threw a small handful of con- n Altman's face. Resenting the Altman turned and cursed who retaliated in language as strong, and showing by his that he was not afraid of . The latter was prevented starting a fight, but upon being turned and stated that he would (Woods) later.

man proceeded down the street Woods speedily forgot the diffi- and continued his fun making the rest of the crowd. Altman but a short ways westward when ned around and went back to Woods was standing. Then warning, he whipped out a and slashed Woods across the side of the neck, almost severing the man's head from his body. Several bystanders saw the trouble, but no attempt was made to stop Altman or his companions, who hastily made a retreat. Woods was picked up and a physician was summoned, but as his jugular vein was completely severed, medical skill was powerless to save the man's life. He expired in a short time after he was cut, and his body was sent to Conant's undertaking establishment. In the meantime the killing had been reported to police headquarters and a number of men were put on the case, while all officers on the regular beats were notified to look out for Altman. Owing to the great crowds on the street, the efforts of the police to locate the murderer proved fruitless, although having such an intimate knowledge of the man, no fears were entertained about capturing him later on.

The Double Killing.

"Not until about half-past twelve o'clock last night did the police hear any more of Altman, and then a message came into police headquarters telling of a fight between two men on Highway avenue, just outside of the city limits. Although out of the police jurisdiction, a number of officers were at once sent out, and arriving at the spot where the fight took place, the officers found Altman and Smith. The former was dead, with a pistol bullet in his heart and two wounds in his left arm, while Smith lay on the piazza of a house nearby, in a dying condition.

"Smith was able to speak and upon being questioned by the officers stated that Altman had cut him while they were fighting. He also stated that he had shot Altman after being cut. The wound which caused the death of Smith was evidently made with a knife, as one of the officers found a large pocket knife nearby with a broken blade.

The Pistol Found.

"Smith's wound was almost identical with that inflicted on Altman's first victim, the cut being on the right side of the neck, but not being quite as deep or as long as the cut made on Woods. Upon turning the body of Smith over the revolver which he used to kill Altman was found on the porch, with every chamber empty. Three chambers had evidently been fired, but only two wounds were found on Altman's body.

Altman was searched and a revolver holster was found strapped around him, which leads to the belief that in the struggle between the two men Smith had forced the revolver from Altman and fired the shots after he was cut. That the shots were fired at close range was shown by the powder burns on Altman's body and clothes. There were no eye witnesses to the last murder, and but for Smith's dying statement there would have been more of a mystery to the tragedy.

Yelled for Assistance.

"Immediately after the shooting Smith rushed off to the nearest house, with Altman in pursuit. Reaching the door of the house where he was found dying Smith pounded and called for help, stating that he had been cut. The woman in the house became frightened and screamed until neighbors ran up and found Smith lying on the porch. A telephone message was at once sent to police headquarters, and the officers were soon on the scene. The fumes of liquor from both men showed that they had been drinking before their trouble commenced. That Altman followed Smith for some distance after he was shot was shown by his being under the floor of the porch, while the blood and torn up appearance of the ground several hundred feet away denoted that the fight took place before Smith gave his assailant the fatal wound.

Altman's Past Record.

"Books at the police headquarters show Altman was previously arrested and charged with murder. On the 26th of September, 1908, a negro named Albert Zachary was killed in a saloon on Highway avenue, and Altman and a man named Mason C. Moseley were arrested, tried in the Criminal Court and were acquitted on the 17th of last November. When arrested for the above mentioned killing Altman was quietly working as if nothing had happened and showed great surprise when he was accused of murdering the negro.

"Altman resided near Highway avenue and was well known in that section of the city. His associates state that he was a pleasant fellow when sober, but that he was easily angered after taking a few drinks. He leaves a wife and several small children besides numerous relatives in this and other counties of the State."

NEGRO MAN DROWNED NEAR BAILEY MINE

WENT OUT TO SHOOT DUCK, WHICH COST HIM HIS LIFE.

Bird Fell in Lake, and Man Went to Secure Prize at Cost of His Life—A Worthy Man.

Information reached this city Friday morning of the drowning of Joseph Brown, a well-known negro of the Archer section, who met his death in a lake near that town Thursday, while hunting for duck.

Brown was employed in the Bailey mine, three miles to the northwest of Archer. He was a faithful employe, and his employers regretted very much the misfortune which overtook him.

Brown was out on a duck hunt Thursday morning, and, according to his companion, shot a duck over the water which sank. He went after the bird, with the result that he got into water over his head and was drowned before assistance could reach him.

SPEAKER CANNON WILL BE RULER OF COMING SESSION

Has Arranged Committee Appointments to Suit His Individual Wishes and is Resting Easy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—When Joseph G. Cannon resumes business as Speaker of the House of Representatives on December 6, it will not be with quaking fears for the safety of his dictatorship, as those who have been reading the threats of the insurgents might expect.

Quite on the other hand, "Uncle Joe" will, in all probability, call the House to order with a greater secret confidence in his power to rule than he ever possessed before.

The Speaker's optimism will be due partly to his temperament, which does not permit him to conceive for a single moment that insurgency is a thing to be taken seriously; and partly because he knows full well that he has a firmer grip on the law-making machinery of the United States than he ever had before.

Be it known that wise old Uncle Joe has gone over every part of the mechanism which for years has enabled him to hold back and crush legislation sought by the people, and has strengthened every weak spot in the all-powerful legislative machine which defies majorities in the House and listens to but one voice—that of the special interests.

Your "Uncle Joe" has gone to the trouble to "pack" every important committee of the House. By this is meant that in appointing members of Congress to the various committees he has placed a majority on nearly every committee that either thinks as he does on legislation that must of necessity come before the particular committees, or else the Speaker has appointed men that he knows will accept "suggestions" from him. The power to appoint committees makes the Speaker the master and not the servant of the House. Under the rules all the committees are appointed by the Speaker. All measures introduced in the House are referred to committees. No measure can be considered unless reported by a committee, except by unanimous consent. For instance, bills relating to postal banks must of necessity be referred to the committee on banking and currency.

"Uncle Joe" is against postal banks. Although every other great nation adopted postal banks years ago, the Speaker still considers them in the "vicious legislation" class. "Uncle Joe" conscientiously believes that as Speaker of the House of Representatives it is incumbent upon him individually to decide what legislation should be allowed to pass, and what should be killed. Convinced that a certain bill should die at some point en route to the national legislative machine, the Speaker does not feel justified in giving the other 391 members of the House even a chance to vote, because they might be sufficient to pass the bill.

In the case of postal banks, it has long been contended by friends of the project that the lower House would pass the measure with little ceremony if given an opportunity to vote.

In appointing the nineteen members of the committee on banking and currency, the Speaker saw to it that more than half of the nineteen were men opposed to postal banks. Thus postal bank legislation, so far as the approaching session of Congress is concerned, is doomed before the House is called to order.

The committee on banking and currency, while packed against postal banks, is packed in favor of any currency legislation that Senator Aldrich's monetary commission recommends. Aldrich represents Wall street bankers and thus the short cut from Rockefeller, Morgan, et al., to the committee on banking and currency, is only too apparent.

The former chairman of this important committee was Chas. N. Fow-

at Thanksgiving Dinner, Then Slashed Her Throat

HAM, N. C., Nov. 26.—With her slashed with a razor by her hand, which she carefully laid on the mantelpiece after com- ing the act, Mrs. Thomas Lips- , wife of a former county com- ner and a member of a widely- family in this place, was found late yesterday at the home of daughter, whom she was visiting. After eating a hearty Thanksgiving dinner Mrs. Lipscombe went to her room. Later some of the guests of the house went for her to pay accompaniments to solos by the guests. It was then that the horrible discovery was made known. It is believed that despondency over the death of a daughter prompted Mrs. Lipscombe to commit suicide.

Suffering With Rabies Woman Barks Like Dog

A New York dispatch says Mrs. Golden Freilander of Carmel, N. J., who was taken to Bellevue Hospital with acute hydrophobia, died strapped to her cot, and in the most terrible agony that her attending physicians have ever witnessed.

Opiates failed of all effect against the hydrophobia poison. Her husband was at her bedside and was almost driven insane at seeing her tortures. The woman displayed almost superhuman strength, so great was her vitality.

Late at night when she was in the last stage of the disease, she suddenly burst the bonds that held her to her cot and sprang up. She darted to the other end of the room before the nurses could stop her, and it was only after four persons struggled with her that they were able to drag her back to the cot.

There she was again strapped down and the bonds held, though she struggled madly, barking like a dog all the time. Mrs. Freilander was bitten October 10 by a pet mastiff.

Engine Exploded, Killing Engineer Davis Instantly

WELDORN, Nov. 26.—A Florida and Georgia railway engine, 309, belonging to the J. & B. F. Camp Lumber Company, blew up yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, killing Engineer J. H. Davis instantly, and injuring Fireman Will Early. The engine was switching in the yard at the mill, which is situated at White Springs, when without warning the boiler exploded, Engineer Davis being killed by the concussion. Fireman Early was thrown forty feet in the air. It is thought that his injuries, while painful, are not serious. Engineer Davis leaves a wife and two small children.

LITTLE ON TRIAL FOR MURDERING SIX PEOPLE

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 26.—A Tazewell, Va., special says the Little case opened yesterday morning and within thirty minutes after court convened the jury was impanelled. When night arrived and the court adjourned for the day the State had built up an exceedingly strong case against the man accused of the sextuple murder and arson.

The strongest witness against the accused man was Mary Lee, who swore on the stand that the lantern which Little brought with him after spending the night of the murder away from home was the one which was used in the Justis home and which was the property of George Meadows. She identified it, she said, by the wick, which was made from a felt hat.

Woman Tells of Plan to Flee.

Counsel for the defense fought hard against the admission of this testimony, but after argument on both sides the judge decided to admit it. This evidence, it was alleged, showed that Little visited the Meadows home on the night of the murder, as it is known that the lantern was at the house before the murder was committed. Other witnesses also admitted that the lantern was the property of the late George Meadows.

Mary Stacy, the woman with whom Little was to have left the town of Hurley for a Western trip, said that Little had told her that he had money in the bank at Bluefield and that as soon as he could get it out, that is, about thirty days, it being in the savings department, he intended taking her away from this section.

Can't Find Missing Money.

Evidence was admitted to show that George Meadows and Bettie Justis had $1,300 in the house at the time of the murder, but none of the money had been found on Little.

Several times the lawyers were in warm wrangles over the admission of evidence, but while the judge ruled first one way and then another in his gruff way, he gave entire satisfaction to both sides.

The State claimed last night that half its evidence was in that it expected to finish today. The court room was crowded all day and a special guard was thrown around the jail to prevent any trouble. It is rumored that Little will ask his wife to take the stand today. She has been sent for.

HOWE'S GREAT LONDON SHOWS.

The Latest Candidate for Public Favor. Leads All Competitors.

"Howe's Great London Show is the best ever seen in Atlanta." This is the universal pronouncement of all our best people interviewed on the subject. This is not only for the price, but at any price. There is not too much of it as is often the case with so many of the big shows. The spectator does not get tired with a bewildering array of acts, and lose interest. It is an all-feature show, nothing tame or stale about it. The side show is high class. The menagerie contains first-class animals, clean, healthy and large. The horses and all the equipment are clean, well kept and of the best. There is nothing shoddy or shabby. In the arena the seating is close to the performers, giving an excellent view of every act. And every act is good. There are several features of the old-fashioned circus, dear to our boyhood days, some that are too frequently left out of the big shows in recent years. There are the several kinds of bareback riding.

The most agreeable part of Howe's Shows is the politeness and accommodation of all of the employes.

There it not a graft of any kind about the show. Children can and do get along as well at the London Show as at Sunday school, says the management.

The show comes to Gainesville Monday, Nov. 29th.

DEPARTMENT WAS BUSY.

Two Alarms Turned in at Same Time on Friday Morning.

Two alarms of fire were turned in simultaneously Friday morning at 3 o'clock, which called the department promptly to service. One of the alarms was from West Thomas street, while the other came from Union Academy, the public school for colored children.

There was no damage at the public school, the building being an outbuilding, but the home of the Jackson woman, with all its contents, was destroyed.

ler of New Jersey. Fowler showed a disposition to be conscientious and independent in the consideration of legislation that came before his committee. Fowler was kicked out and Vreeland, a pet of Senator Aldrich, substituted.

With great carefulness "Uncle Joe" has gone over nearly every important committee, taking a friend of progressive legislation off of this or that committee, and filling his place with a friend of the special interests.

The carefully selected majority of the interstate and foreign commerce committee will guard against the possible success of all so-called "anti-railroad" legislation, while the specially-prepared majority of the committee on appropriations will take pains to see that Government expenditures go to the districts of members of Congress who faithfully serve the commands of the Cannon-Aldrich-Taft oligarchy, and that the insurgents are kept at a safe distance from the "pork barrel."

Even if a committee should, contrary to the Speaker's wishes, report a bill, he still has control of the matter when it comes to the House. The power of recognition under the rules is absolutely given to the Speaker. He can refuse, even when a bill is reported by a committee, to recognize any one either for its consideration or its passage. Thus he continues master even of the committees named by him. If a member arises from his seat "Uncle Joe" does not recognize him, unless previous arrangements have been made, until he asks, "For what purpose does the gentleman arise?" If the member will not state his purpose he is not recognized, and if he states his purpose and it is not in accord with the views of the Speaker he refuses to recognize him.

Speaker Cannon will open Congress prepared for the battle of his life. He believes that he will win. He may possibly do so, at least so far as the Sixty-Second Congress is concerned.

If the public watches closely, it will no doubt see that any bill having the enmity of the Speaker will fall just short of passage, and that proposed legislation having his approval will pass to the statute books with bewildering swiftness and smoothness. It must be taken into consideration that President Taft is with the Speaker, body and soul, and this will help "Uncle Joe" considerably.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Large Congregations Were Present at Both Services Friday.

A large congregation awaited the coming of Dr. Christian yesterday morning and he preached with unusual power on "The Unproductiveness of a Life Devoted to Self." He made it so plain that all could understand that to be alive to God one must be dead to the world.

At the evening service he preached on "Gainesville Saved," to a large and appreciative congregation. The beautiful word picture Dr. Christian drew of Gainesville in harmony with God was thrilling in the extreme, and it doubtless created a desire in many souls to work with might and mane to bring about the reality of the picture.

A mighties in the Scriptures has never preached the gospel in this city, and everybody should take advantage of the few remaining services, as he makes plain to us the things that pertain to our soul's welfare.

Service this morning at 9:30 and this afternoon there will be a great service for the young people. While everybody is invited to this service, it will be especially for young people and children. This service begins promptly at 3 p. m.

UNIQUE "SOUND KILLER."

For the first time in the history of the city of New York, plans for a "sound-killer" have been filed with the building department. The type of construction is absolutely new. It was made necessary by the distress which the guests of a hotel suffered from the noise of printing presses in the adjoining building.

The Hotel Roland is at 54 East 59th street. The presses on the first floor of the next building have been disturbing the management and guests for a long time. Finally it was decided to build a wall, in the intervening court, to keep out the sound.

After a study of the tests that had been made in the past, to determine to what extent various materials conducted sound, the architect selected hollow blocks of porous terra cotta for the wall. Then he decided to fill the hollow spaces of the blocks with mineral wool. This substance will act as a muffler together with the porous terra cotta; it is expected to give good protection to the ear drums of the hotel guests. For the sake of appearances, the wall has a surface coating of cement.

Architects and builders will watch this experiment with interest. The firep-roof terra cotta blocks used in walls and floors are known to be good absorbers of sound waves, but no practical test of this nature has been made before.

The drouth seems to extend from Connecticut into Florida down the coast. In several of the States the streams are drying up and water supplies are failing. Forest fires are raging in the Dismal Swamp of Virginia, in some of the woods of Georgia. In Eastern Connecticut, it is said, many of the streams are so low that the fish are dying and sickness among the people is feared as a result. In the same section a number of manufacturing plants have been shut down because there is not water enough to furnish the power for them. Meanwhile, there have been such tremendous downpours of rain in Central America and Mexico as to cause great damage. Has deforestation on the Atlantic seaboard anything to do with this very large deficiency of moisture? asks The Savannah News.

President Taft, in addition to devising ways of minimizing delays in the courts of justices, might also start a movement for condensing legal opinions.

To provide for its future needs in timber and crossties the Pennsylvania railroad has planted more than 3,000,000 trees in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

A chip on the shoulder may in time become a back-breaking burden. Look at Germany's military and naval budget estimate for 1910, $312,500,000.

NAVAL STORES IMPORTANT IN SOUTH'S INDUSTRIAL HISTORY.

"The naval stores industry is one of the oldest industries in the United States, deriving its name from the fact that in the early days pitch from pine trees was commonly used to make wooden vessels water-tight," says R. S. Kellogg of the United States Forest Service. "The term has persisted to this day, though the products long ago found other and more important uses.

"The turpentining of pine timber began in New England with the 'pitch,' or yellow pine, of that region, but it was in North Carolina that the first extensive development of the naval stores industry occurred. The records show that from 1768 to 1770 the average exports of naval stores to England included 88,111 barrels of crude turpentine, 20,646 barrels of pitch, and 88,366 barrels of tar. Most of the crude was shipped to England for distillation through the ports of Wilmington and Newbern.

"The supplanting of the iron retort by the copper still in 1834 greatly increased the output of volatile oil and gave much impetus to the industry. However, previous to 1844 not over one-half of the production in North Carolina was distilled at home. Then, because of the poor market for rosin, the stills were transferred from the ports to the woods, and a heavy onslaught upon long-leaf pine forests of the South began.

"North Carolina reached its maximum in naval stores production in 1879-80, with an exportation of 6,279,250 gallons of turpentine, and 663,967 barrels of rosin. A comparison of this great exportation with a total production in North Carolina in 1908 of 732,300 gallons of turpentine and 131,900 barrels of rosin tells the story of the exhaustion of the long-leaf pine in that State. South Carolina attained its maximum output of naval stores in 1882, only two years after that of North Carolina. The invasion of new forests of virgin timber brought Georgia to the front a few years later, but recently that State has been surpassed by Florida, which now is producing nearly one-half of the total value of the yearly output of the naval stores industry. After following the long-leaf pine forests to their southern limits, turpentining swung to the westward across Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas, the latter State having become a considerable producer only within the last seven years.

"Until recently naval stores were entirely produced by one of the largest and most destructive systems of forest exploitation ever devised. Great damage by fire and storm has always followed the turpentine box. Thousands of acres of splendid long-leaf pine forests have been abandoned and destroyed after three or four years of turpentining, and the valuable timber which they contained not utilized. The earlier operations of the turpentiner were comparable in their destructiveness only to those which swept the buffalo from the Western plains. The buffalo was killed for the hide and horns; the long-leaf pine tree for a gallon or two of turpentine and a few pounds of rosin.

"The destructiveness of the box system at last became so apparent and widespread that to perpetuate their industry the operators were forced to turn to other methods. Various substitutes were proposed, and experimental work of the Forest Service in methods of conservative operation dates from 1901, when Dr. Herty undertook the studies, with whose splendid results you have long been familiar.

"The efforts of Dr. Herty and other experimenters have demonstrated conclusively that improved methods, in which a cup is used to catch the crude turpentine and the box done away with, result in the production of a larger quantity of turpentine and rosin, higher grades of the latter, longer life to the timber, and greatly lessened damage from the fire and wind. The introduction of these methods is the first step in conservative turpentining.

"Because of the increased initial cost of the equipment, such methods have not appealed to the smaller operators who have little capital, and whose operations extend over only two or three years in a given locality. They are unquestionably profitable to the larger operators and especially to those who, working upon their own timber, have the most inducement to handle it carefully. Only within the last five years have these improved methods been introduced upon a commercial scale.

"Yet the facts that already one-seventh of the entire output of naval stores is by these methods, and that in the newer fields and most up-to-date operations they are used most largely, demonstrates that they have passed far beyond the experimental stage."

The following from The Madison Enterprise-Recorder is applicable to other counties than Madison: "If some of the large plantations of Madison county could be divided up and sold off as small farms to a few families of intensive farmers from the West our county would be greatly benefited. What we need is the small farmer who reads, who studies agricultural methods and keeps pace with the progress of agricultural methods and improvements. The great trouble with us is that making a living is so easy we don't put forth all that is in us. We merely scratch the soil and then sit down and wait for the harvest to come."

German engineers are building an experimental railroad five miles long, the cars of which will be supported by baloons, the motive power being supplied by electricity through cables to which they will be attached.

If Senator Bourne succeeds in reducing the congressional appropriations by $100,000,000 no canvass will be necessary to determine the most unpopular member of the Senate from a statesman's viewpoint.

DON'T BE BALD

Almost Anyone May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

You can easily find out for yourself if your hair needs nourishment, if it is thinning, getting dry, harsh and brittle, or splitting at the ends. You simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and closely examine its roots. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right; if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads if the scalp is not glazed and shiny. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will completely eradicate dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and dose not grease or gum the hair. We have it in two sizes, price 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our recommendation and with our guarantee back of it. You certainly take no risk. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Gainesville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. W. McCollum & Co., corner East Main and Union streets.

For the third time this season Tampa Heights and the second team of Hyde Park, known as the Hyde Park Juniors, have met to a tie score on the gridiron, and this only adds to the rivalry between the two teams. The first game was 5 to 5 and the second 0-0. Tuesday they again played a scoreless game with twenty-five minute halves.

THEY TOOK HIM IN.

A Surprise That Ruffled an Absent-minded Scientist.

A certain foreign scientist who lectured in this country was, to say the least, careless about dress. Once he was asked to lecture in a city not far from Philadelphia. He went, taking with him his dress suit and no other suit. Having given his lecture, he spent the night at the house of a fellow professor, woke up the next morning, cheerfully donned the dress suit and sallied forth to give another lecture at the local college.

He didn't know just where the college was, but, spying an imposing looking building not far from his host's residence, decided that that was it. While walking toward the door he suddenly saw an ant hill. Bugs were his specialty. He dropped at once to his knees, dress suit and all, and started to scoop out ants.

The next thing he knew he was surrounded by a body of men who had rushed out from the imposing looking building. They seized him roughly and proceeded to drag him indoors. He gesticulated. He protested in many languages. It was of no avail. At last, however, explanations were forthcoming.

The imposing looking building was none other than the lunatic asylum. Seeing a man attired in a dress suit digging up ants at 10 o'clock in the morning, the attendants had thought that an inmate had escaped; hence the sally and attack.—Philadelphia Record.

VARNISH TROUBLES.

The Complaint That Is Made by a Piano Manufacturer.

The piano manufacturer was talking. "A fortune of a million dollars, at least," he said, "awaits the man who can invent a varnish which will respond to changes of temperature in exactly the same rate at which wood responds.

"Everybody who ever has made or owned a highly polished article of furniture knows that the surface is liable to break into small cracks—become finely crackled—and thus its beauty is lost. This crackling is caused by the fact that sudden changes of temperature affect varnish—especially fine piano varnish—almost instantly, while the wood beneath contracts or expands at a different rate. This splinters the varnish, and thus far no manufacturer has been able to get the best of the situation.

"We are waiting for this entirely possible elastic varnish, which, when it shall come, will be more welcome to the manufacturers of fine furniture than the flying machine is to the world at large. A piano, delicate as it is, could be stored in an icehouse without detriment to its polished surface, provided the temperature was kept even, but changes, especially if sudden, are fatal to the beauty of the case."—New York Press.

CANINE JUSTICE.

Eskimo Dogs Seem to Have Laws of Their Own.

In his voyage of polar exploration Commander Fiala observed among his dogs a sort of government quite independent of that of their keepers. They were of the Eskimo variety and were trained to work in teams. In their general conduct, however, they acted as a community, and their rules had reference to the common good. There was no penalty less than that of death.

During the period of darkness we lost eight dogs. Three of them, splendid large animals, were killed by their companions. The other five either wandered off on the young ice and were blown away or were killed by the pack at a distance from camp. Every dog was known by name.

It is a curious fact that when one dog has antagonized the others the only way to save him from destruction later on is to chain him. Then the other dogs let him alone. Unfortunately for us, the dogs that seemed to incur the enmity of their fellows were the large, strong animals, the bullies and fighters.

There seemed to be a degree of justice in their judgments. From close observation I found that the dogs generally forgave a bite on the head or body, but that an attack on the legs seemed to be considered foul play and must be paid for by the life of the offending canine. The whole pack united in his execution.—Youth's Companion.

VIRTUE IN SMOKING.

One Man Who Now Has an Argument Handy For His Wife.

The wife of a Topeka man objects strenuously because her husband is a confirmed smoker. He is never happy without a cigar or a pipe. The other morning she gave him a ten dollar bill and told him to buy several things for her. He pushed the bill into his coat pocket and rushed out of the house to catch a car.

He found that he had to wait a few minutes at the corner, for the cars were off schedule that morning, and then he proceeded to light a cigar. But he found no matches—all of his pockets were bare of them. Suddenly he happened to think that he also missed the ten dollar bill. A hurried search disclosed that it was gone.

He turned right about and retraced his steps. Just as he got in front of his home he happened to look into the street, and there was that "ten" tumbling around in the wind. His wife saw him go and pick it up, and she demanded an explanation. He promptly told her how looking for a match had caused him to discover that he had lost the bill.

"Now tell me there isn't any virtue in smoking!" he snorted as he puffed out his chest.—Kansas City Journal.

Where Women Do All the Work.

The smallest dependency of France is the Ile d'Hoedic, situated at the east of Belle Isle. Its population is 200. They do not speak French, except the cure and the schoolmaster, but Celtic, and they are provided with food at an inn managed by the women. Fishing is the principal industry. The profits are shared out each year among the inhabitants. The men live on soup and fish and smoke pipes with lobster claws for stems. The women do all the hard work—get in the harvest, look out for wreckage and gather seaweed, from which they extract soda. The town has no streets. The houses are of mud. The islanders have a yearly feast in the early part of October. The island possesses a good water supply. The governing body is composed of the ten ancients of the place under the direction of the cure.

BABY'S TERRIBLE WATERY ECZEMA

Itching Humor Broke Out on Tiny Mite's Cheeks—Would Tear His Face Till Blood Streamed Down Unless Hands were Bandaged—Spent $50 on Useless Treatments.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF BUT $1.50

"When my little boy was two and a half months old he broke out on both cheeks with eczema. It was the itchy, watery kind and we had to keep his little hands wrapped up all the time, and if he would happen to get them uncovered he would claw his face till the blood streamed down on his clothing. We called in a physician at once, but he gave an ointment which was so severe that my babe would scream when it was put on. We changed doctors and medicines until we had spen fifty dollars or more and baby was getting worse. I was so worn out watching and caring for him night and day that I almost felt sure the disease was incurable. But finally reading of the good results of the Cuticura Remedies, I determined to try them. I can truthfully say I was more than surprised, for I bought only a dollar and a half's worth of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills), and they did more good than all my doctors' medicines I had tried, and in fact entirely cured him. I will send you a photograph taken when he was fifteen months old and you can see his face is perfectly clear of the least spot or scar of anything. If I ever have this trouble again, I will never think of doctoring but will send for the Cuticura Remedies at once. As it is, I would never think of using any other than Cuticura Soap for my babe. You are at liberty to publish this, it may help some distressed mother as I was helped.—Mrs. W. M. Comerer, Burnt Cabins, Pa., Sept. 15, 1908."

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. A Use For the Jail.

Winkleborough is a flourishing little seaside resort, and during the season almost every available room is let at good prices.

A visitor to that delightful spot last season was interested to observe a policeman soundly cuff a lanky youth for some misdemeanor, and, curious to know the reason of the chastisement, he went over to the guardian of the peace.

"What's he done, constable?" inquired the visitor.

"Pickin' pockets, sir. Let me catch 'im at it ag'in an' I'll give 'im a rare good hidin'."

"But why didn't you run him in?"

"Run 'im in!" retorted the policeman. "Why, bless yer, we ain't runnin' anybody in this week. The p'lice station's let for lodgin's!"—London Answers.

Wallack on the Ballet.

The late Lester Wallack once told a story of his still more famous father, James W., that as either an actor or a manager he could never tolerate the ballet, even where it was seemingly necessary according to custom as part of an entertainment or in the opera.

One day there came to him a friend, a man about town, who said, "My dear Wallack, it is very curious that you do not see the beauties of imagination shown by the poses of the ballet." Going on in this strain, the visitor at last wore out the patience of the actor-manager, who replied:

"Look here, it is bad enough to stand these absurdities in an opera; but, though I can comprehend people singing their joys, I am hanged if I can their dancing their griefs."

The Judge's Advice.

In sentencing a forger of banknotes to death an English judge said, "I can hold out no hope to you for mercy here, and I must urge you to make preparation for another world, where I hope you may obtain that mercy which a due regard to the credit of our paper currency forbids you to hope for here."

Family Connection a la Mode.

"Well, yes; we are related in a way."

"By marriage?"

"Yes. My first wife's third husband is married to his wife's second husband's fourth partner in matrimony."—Chicago Tribune.

NORMAN PEASANTS.

Their Bread Is Made In the Stables by the Men.

A farmer's wife in the north of France may do a good part of the heavy work about the farm, but she never thinks of making the bread. That is man's work, and it is carried on not in the kitchen, but in the stable.

The Norman peasant eats an astonishing quantity of bread. He has little else—except cider—for his breakfast and supper, and it is a very important part of his noonday meal as well.

And such queer looking bread as it is! The "loaves" are as round and as palely yellow as the full moon. They are often three feet in circumference and eight or ten inches thick. Seeing one of them for the first time, you would be likely to take it for a huge cheese.

Breadmaking being only a monthly occurrence in a Norman household, the operations must be on a scale of considerable magnitude if the family supply is to be sufficient to last for four weeks. The dough is always mixed in a certain inclosed space upon the floor of the barn.

At other times cats, dogs and poultry enjoy the freedom of this space, but when breadmaking time comes these are evicted and the floor is swept—let us hope very thoroughly.

There is no dough pan or trough. The flour and water are poured together upon the floor, and the farmer and his sons or hired laborers beat the mass into the proper consistency with heavy clubs widely flattened at the ends until they look something like roughly shaped snow shovels. Then a lump of leaven is added, and the mass is given ten or twelve hours to "rise."

Next it must be kneaded, a process which is accomplished with the feet. Shod in heavy sabots, or wooden shoes—not the everyday shoes, which are painted black, but made of unstained whitewood—the men leap into the midst of the dough. They jump about with agility; they stamp and kick the spongy stuff; they dance clumsy jigs in it, the stiffening dough clinging tenaciously to their shoes. It is the hardest of hard work, requiring endurance as well as strength, and before it is time to stop more than one of the men will be staggering to and fro in the pasty mass, thoroughly exhausted.

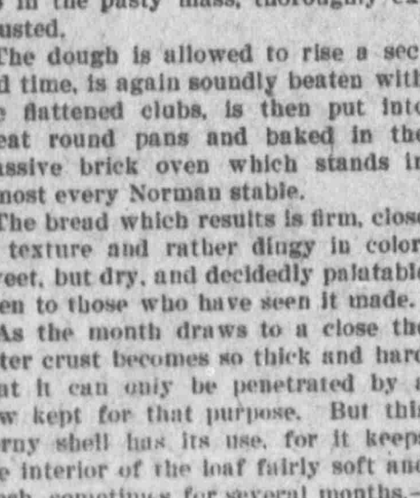
The dough is allowed to rise a second time, is again soundly beaten with the flattened clubs, is then put into great round pans and baked in the massive brick oven which stands in almost every Norman stable.

The bread which results is firm, close in texture and rather dingy in color, sweet, but dry, and decidedly palatable even to those who have seen it made.

As the month draws to a close the outer crust becomes so thick and hard that it can only be penetrated by a saw kept for that purpose. But this horny shell has its use, for it keeps the interior of the loaf fairly soft and fresh, sometimes for several months.—Youth's Companion.

It's a Crime

To neglect your health. The worst neglect that you can be guilty of is to allow constipation, biliousness or any liver or bowel trouble to continue. It is poisoning your entire system and may lead to a serious chronic disease. Take Ballard's Herbine and get absolutely well. The sure cure for any and all troubles of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by W. M. Johnson.



DON'T FIDDLE YOUR TIME AWAY

In that real estate deal—step in and have us investigate the validity of the title. It might save you the amount of your investment.

The abstract's cost is but a trifle compared to the amount at stake—it's economy to do without it.

Her Patriotic Protest.

The force of natural and instinctive pride in one's country has been endlessly expressed in literatures of all times and climes, but rarely more dramatically than in the following little incident:

Grieg, as every one knows, is the musical idol of all Norwegians, although it has been the fashion of less talented outsiders to underrate him. One of the most indefatigable of these detractors was the German composer Bargiel, a man of an instinctively jealous nature.

One day one of his pupils, a Norwegian girl, brought for her lesson a concerto of Grieg's. Bargiel took it from her with a smile of most superior disdain.

"But I told you to bring your music, and Grieg is no music!" he said scornfully.

"What—Grieg no music!" was the indignant reply. "Adieu, Herr Professor!" And she swept out of the studio, never to return.

To Save Confusion When Moving.

If you are planning to move prevent confusion in placing furniture in the new house in the following manner: In leisure moments prepare a large card for each room to be tacked to the outside of the door frame on moving day. Assign a number and mark a card for each bedroom. Letter the other cards with the names of the other rooms. Then prepare a number of smaller tags, attaching a string to each, or use baggage tags. Mark enough to put on all furniture, trunks or boxes with the name of the room into which each is to be put. Show your movers the arrangement and there will be little or no error in placing, while no valuable time and strength will be lost in directing.—Woman's Home Companion.

Men Who Write Badly.

"Practice makes perfect" in all the arts and handicrafts, it would seem, barring that of penmanship. In that apparently the more one practices the more imperfect becomes the result produced, and your real man of the pen writes in seven cases out of ten a hand that would reflect discredit on his own housemaid.—Bookman.

A Hair Breadth Escape.

Do you know that every time you have a cough or cold and let it run on thinking it will just cure itself you are inviting pneumonia, consumption or some other pulmonary trouble? Don't risk it. Put your lungs back in perfect health and stop that cough with Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Colonial Holidays

THE open fireplace, the crackling logs, the roasting chestnuts, the jingle of sleighbells, the snow-mantled guests!

The festive board—the spotless linen—the quaint, old china, the family silver brought from its hiding place! The pride in that silver!

And now—your family silver? Is it the "Colonial" made in the historic old town of Newburyport, Massachusetts? If so, you have equal pride in yours.

This splendid pattern in Sterling Silver reflects all the courtly grace and dignity with which your great-great-grandsire led the cotillion or dispensed the hospitalities of the feast.

Are you prepared for your Holiday carving? We propose a bird set in the "Colonial" for your own use, or as an acceptable gift. Made in a complete table service.

GAINESVILLE,

University City.

Gainesville is conceded to be the most enterprising as well as the most beautiful city in the interior of Florida. It is located in the very center of the State, half way between the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, surrounded by lands of such fertility as to be capable of producing a great variety of crops; in the heart of the truck-growing, phosphate and naval stores belt. She has the best educational advantages in the State, good churches, with edifices which are superior to any town of its size in Florida, with large and consistent congregations; has a climate which cannot be excelled for health and pleasure. All these natural advantages, combined with a progressive and enterprising cosmopolitan citizenship, are sure to make a big city.

There are many natural attractions in close proximity to the city, some of which are Alachua Sink, Paine's Prairie, the Devil's Mill Hopper, Warren's Cave, and Lake Newnan, all of which are reached by private conveyance

Spring Park Stock Farm, the largest and finest live stock farm in the State, is only eight miles west of the city and is reached by a good hard road, affording a most pleasant drive.

The farmers of Alachua county, of which Gainesville is the county seat, "live at home and board at the same place." The temperature is very uniform, scarcely ever reaching the nineties in summer or the twenties in winter. The population of Gainesville is about eight thousand, representing nearly every nationality on the face of the earth, and strangers always meet with a hearty welcome.
